· DDice ·

Worked Examples · Everything, including the GM's side

— Contents —

How to read this book 2

Rolling dice 2

Making a character 2

Fighting 2

Quests 3

Being an NPC 3

Buttons and targets 3

A check for everybody 4

Remembering last time 4

Titles and groups 4

Encounters — sessions on the fly 4

Campaigns — the long arc 5

Wrapping up 5

Fixing what was said 6

Telling the GMs something 6

How to read this book

Each example shows two things: what you type, and what happens next. You can copy the line exactly, then change the names to your own.

@Players means any player, picked from the list Discord shows you, and @GMs any Game Master; names like @Artorius and @Meliora are people in the story. Words like name: are labels — type the label, then your answer.

Rolling dice

`1d20`	(Rolls one twenty-sided die. The bot shows the number.)
`2d6+3`	(Rolls two six-sided dice, adds 3, shows the total.)
`r1d20+5 attack`	(Same roll with a name on it, so everyone knows what it was for.)

A natural 20 is when the die itself shows 20, before you add anything. A natural 1 is when it shows 1. Both matter in fights.

Making a character

`/char create`	(The bot asks you questions and builds your sheet.)
`/char view show`	(Shows your sheet: your stats, your things, your dice history.)
`/char view show user:@Artorius`	(Shows somebody else's sheet.)

Your sheet also lives in its own thread in the character forum. It updates itself — you never have to edit it.

Fighting

`/fight start`	(Everyone rolls to see who goes first.)
`/fight atk stat:str target:@Artorius`	(You swing at Artorius using your strength.)
`/fight def stat:dex`	(You try to dodge, using how quick you are.)
`/fight resolve`	(The bot compares the two rolls and says what happened.)

If your attack roll shows a natural 1, the attack fails and your next defence is weaker — you roll the die on its own, with no stat added. If your defence roll shows a natural 20, you turn the blow aside AND your next attack gets +2.

Quests

`/quest create`	(Write a new quest.)
`/quest post number:1`	(Put it on the board so players can ask to join.)
`/quest party approve number:1 user:@Artorius`	(Let Artorius in.)
`/quest run start number:1`	(Begin a run with everyone who was let in.)
`/quest run complete number:1 summary:…`	(Finish it, pay merits, and tell the story.)

Being an NPC

`/npc create name:Garrick str:3 con:2 dex:2 wis:1 lck:2`	(Make a person for the world.)
`/npc say name:Garrick speech:Hello there`	(Garrick speaks, in his own name and face.)
`/npc create name:Hollow str:3 con:2 dex:3 wis:1 lck:1 temp:true`	(A Hollow for this fight only — no page, swept away when the fight ends.)
`/npc temp list`	(Every throwaway NPC still lying about.)
`/npc temp keep name:Hollow`	(Keep one — it becomes permanent and gains a page.)
`/npc temp clear`	(Sweep every temporary NPC away now.)

Buttons and targets

`/button roll stat:dex dc:12 reason:The ledge is slippery`	(Puts a button in the channel. Anyone can press it to try climbing.)
`/button roll dice:2d6+1 for:@Artorius once:true`	(Only Artorius can press it, and only once.)

`/target create name:Barricade dc:12 stat:STR, DEX success_flavour:The planks give way. fail_flavour:It does not budge.`

Something to hit, a d20 against 12, STR and DEX as buttons. A press opens a short form — what you do, what you say — then rolls. A natural 20 beats it outright and posts the success flavour; otherwise each hit asks the GM to call it, and the verdict opens a What happens? form prefilled with the flavour. A fail brings the card back below with a counter.

A check for everybody

`/button group stat:wis dc:12 reason:The bridge groans`	(Everyone presses once and rolls. The message keeps score.)
`(the presses)`	(Artorius rolls 17 and Meliora 14 — across. Zeus rolls 6 — not.)
`(press Call it)`	(The GM closes it, and the bot says how many got across: two of three.)

This is for moments when the whole party is doing the same thing at once — climbing, hiding, holding a door. One message, one answer.

Remembering last time

`/quest run recap number:1`	(The bot writes up what happened, from its notes.)
`/quest run recap number:1 post:true`	(Same, but it reads it out to the party.)

The recap is a first draft. Change any of it before you share it — the bot only knows what was written down.

Titles and groups

`/standing title grant user:@Artorius title:Siren's Bane source:Sirens Redoubt`	(Artorius earns a title. It shows on their page.)
`/standing association add user:@Artorius group:The Falconers note:Quartermaster`	(Artorius now stands with the Falconers.)

Encounters — sessions on the fly

`/encounter start name:Hollows on the ridge merits:2`

No board, no applications. The bot lists the roster; tick who is in it, press Open the encounter, and it opens its own thread in quest-instances with the party pulled in.

`/encounter add user:@Artorius`	(Artorius arrives late. The seats are yours; nobody can press their own way in.)
`/encounter preset save name:Ridge hollows merits:2 npcs:Hollow x3`	(Save the scene once.)
`/encounter start name:Hollows again preset:Ridge hollows`	(Next time it is one command: merits set, three Hollows step out.)
`/encounter end summary:They fled.`	(Pays out, writes the chronicle, posts the review button.)

An encounter does not count toward one quest at a time, so a player already on a quest can still be jumped by bandits. Its seats are the GM's: no Join button, `/encounter add` and `/encounter remove` in its thread. One left quiet for six hours pings the GMs in its room; it never ends itself.

Campaigns — the long arc

`/campaign create name:The Falconer’s War description:…`	(A named arc with its own GM-only thread and a live card.)
`/quest create … campaign:The Falconer’s War`	(Link at birth. Every run of that listing follows it.)
`/campaign add campaign:The Falconer’s War quest:2`	(Or link something that already exists — old quests too.)
`/campaign note campaign:… text:A letter arrives from the coast.`	(A beat that happened between runs.)
`/campaign status campaign:… text:The garrison holds. For now.`	(Where things stand — the present, not the history.)
`/campaign recap campaign:…`	(A previously-on across every linked run.)
`/campaign show campaign:…`	(Players see the premise, what is done, and their own part. GMs see everything.)

Wrapping up

`/quest run winddown number:1`

The story is over; rewards are not settled. The party may rest and join other quests while you decide.

`/quest run complete number:1 summary:… title:…`	(Pays everyone seated when the story ended — even someone kicked during the winddown.)
(press ↩ Reopen within five minutes)	(Wrong number? The payout is reversed and the party released. Fix it, complete again.)
`/quest archive number:1`	(A box opens for the final word. It goes on the record, into the thread, and the GM quest log.)

`/gm check stalled`

What is waiting on a GM: winding-down runs, quiet encounters, staged parties never launched, targets standing over a day. A weekly digest of the same lands in the gm-digest forum, one thread a week.

Fixing what was said

(long-press a bot message → Apps → Edit (DDice))	(The text opens already filled in. Fix the spelling, save. Works on NPC speech too.)

/edit
The same from a private list: the last lines the bot and its NPCs said here. Pick one, fix it, save. The table sees only the corrected line.

Only messages the bot itself posted. The roll-audit records what changed.

Telling the GMs something

/feedback send	(Pick a room, score it out of ten, say your piece. Only GMs see it.)
(the button on your page)	(Ask a GM to update your lore document.)

Penned by the DDice Scriptorium · May your rolls be ever in your favour